

The Carmel Pine Cone

Army-Navy Your Hosts For Saturday

Military installations on the Peninsula will play open house to the public tomorrow in observance of National Armed Forces Day, with special exhibits, demonstrations and displays slated for Fort Ord, the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School and the Naval Air Station.

Fort Ord will be open to the public from 9:00 to 4:30 o'clock; special exhibits will be set up on the large blacktop area located near the center of the post.

Board Reshuffles Executive Tasks Of School Officials

The appointment of Stuart Mitchell as full-time superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District and Warren Edwards as full-time principal of Carmel High School was made effective Wednesday night at the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees at the high school.

Such action had been under consideration for several months because of increasing needs of the community with its rapid growth. The appointments will be effective as of July 1.

Discussion concerning a complete physical education program along with an increased music program brought suggestions for general improvement along those lines, although no action was taken. Orville Rogers, principal of Sunset School, in a memorandum to the Board, said: "For many years I have felt that we have had an inadequate physical education program at Sunset. . . . I think a trained P.E. man—teaching at least the seventh and eighth grade P.E.—would be a big step toward a coordinated overall program."

The eventual aim of the district, it was pointed out, is to have a full-time recreation person who could handle not only the physical education work at the school, but

Public Hearing Wed. On New Church Building Permit

A public hearing will be held before the Carmel Planning Commission Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock in city hall on the new Presbyterian Church's application for a building permit on the triangular lot between Mountain View and Junipero Street which has its apex on Ocean Avenue. The lot is zoned for residential use.

Ground plans on file in the city clerk's office show a church building on the forward part of the lot, a Sunday School in the rear.

Property owners in the neighborhood have been notified by letter from the city clerk that the hearing is to be held, and urged to attend since the decision of the planning commission in the matter will affect their interests. The ground plan may be seen at any time during business office hours at the city clerk's office in city hall.

Participating in the exhibitions, in addition to those of the post, will be the Army Language School, the U.S. Army Reserve and the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

A formal review of 6th Army Division troops and motorized equipment will begin the festivities at 10:45 o'clock, during which 29 jet planes will fly over the reviewing stands. Immediately following the review a helicopter demonstration will be held on the south parade grounds. A chicken dinner will be served in the mess hall at noon; visitors may also purchase a buffet lunch at the Soldiers' Club or refreshments from booths at the exhibit area. At 12:30 o'clock baseball fans will have a chance to see the Fort Ord Warriors play a double header. The 6th Infantry Division Band will play at the exhibition site from 1:00 to 2:00 o'clock. A special feature of the exhibitions will be a display of weapons used by combat infantry units; at 3:00 o'clock, the exhibition will be climaxed by an actual firing of these weapons on the range.

The U.S. Naval Postgraduate School will hold open house from 11:00 to 5:00 o'clock in the main building and several of the laboratories (the new engineering building, however, will not be open), and will present demonstrations and exhibits continuously throughout the day. The Physics and Radiology lab will have special demonstrations of the Wilson cloud chamber, radioactivity detection and radar operation. Home town weather information will be offered in the Aerology lab, in addition to a display of weather instruments and the showing of films on weather and special recordings of undersea sounds. The Aeronautical lab will give a demonstration of the supersonic wind tunnel and of the operation of a Polling will take place from 3:00 to 7:00 o'clock at Carmelo School.

Here are the winners of the American Legion Auxiliary #512 annual Americanism Essay Contest as they appeared following the awards ceremony Wednesday night at Legion Hall. From left, first row: Hansy de Petra, Sunset School, Group Two (seventh, eighth and ninth grades); and Betsy Helm and Michael Mitchell, both of Junipero Serra, winners of Group One (fourth, fifth, and sixth grades). PINE CONE WINS FIRST TWO GAMES OF TOURNAMENT

Softball season got under way this week with the Carmel Pine Cone joining the Pacific Grove League and winning the first game in the Bushers Insurance Benefit Pre-Season Tournament in the Grove Monday night from 6032 Receiving Station at Fort Ord, 7-2. Jim Morton pitched a two-hitter for the Carmel team.

In a practice game on the home field Tuesday night Pine Cone took the Navy Line School, 5-4, Johnny De Amaral on the mound.

Jim Morton was hurling for the Coners Wednesday night when they beat Cal Van 8-3 in Pacific Grove. Pine Cone is scheduled to play again in the Grove tonight and Saturday night.

Joe Nicholson and Ky Miyamoto are managing the Pine Cone softballers this season, and in two weeks Ky will join the pitching staff.

CARMEL TRACKMEN IN NCS TRIALS AT SUNNYVALE

A select group of Carmel High trackmen who qualified by placing in the CCAL finals will trek to Sunnyvale today seeking a spot in the big NCS Meet slated for next Saturday at Berkeley. Lads who finish in the first five at Sunnyvale today win the coveted chance to participate against the very best in Northern California in the NCS Meet.

Jim O'Dell, ace varsity hurdler, and Ken Barker, broad-jumper, will represent Carmel in the heavy-weight division and both are conceded a fine chance to finish in the top five. Carmel's lightweights will be represented by Randy Houghtelling, a 10-6 pole-vaulter, who will have to beat 11-feet in order to place in tonight's meet, Tom Petty, a potential 55-foot shot-putter, and Mike Mosolf, runner-up in the CCAL high-jump at 5-6.

Tomorrow afternoon, Coach Howard Byrne will shepherd a distance-medley relay team of Don Leidig, John Farrell, George Wightman, and Brayton Witherell to the Fresno Relays where they will compete against the cream of the prep crop. Jim O'Dell will also make the jaunt to Fresno, competing in the open high school high-hurdler race.

PADRES NIP GONZALES IN EXTRA-INNING THRILLER

Carmel High's hustling baseball team staged three important rallies in their league tussle with Gonzales last Friday afternoon and finally topped the Spartans, 5 to 4, in an extra-inning pitchers battle. The visitors got off to a flying start in the first inning, putting four markers on the scoreboard as Carmel's George Hunter developed a streak of wildness, walked four Spartan swingers and gave up a brace of hits. Carmel dented the scoreboard in the same inning as Don Leidig hit a booming double and moved across on Hunter's infield out. Behind 4-3 going into the final frame, the Padres locked up the game at four apiece as Bob Michela lashed out a solid triple and scored on a sacrifice fly to center field. In the extra inning, Hunter set the visitors down without further damage and set the stage for the winning rally. An infield miscue by the Gonzales third-baseman gave Bill McCormack, Carmel right-fielder, a life at second base and provided the break which gave Carmel the game. Bill Powell, lightweight track speedster, went into the game to run for McCormack and scored the winning marker as the Gonzales first-baseman failed to stop an infield throw.

Don Leidig, Carmel left-fielder, was the potent bat-wielder for the afternoon, collecting a satisfying 4 for 5, one triple and three singles. Hitting well over 300 before Friday's game, Leidig is now firmly established as the batting leader of the B division.

Victory over Gonzales keeps Carmel in contention for the top spot in the league race and makes their next three games crucial to the league's final standings. This afternoon the Padres host the Gilroy Mustangs and they must get over Vigna & Company in order to stay in the running. Next Wednesday there will be a make-up game with league-leading Pacific Grove, and on next Friday, they will wind up the season against runner-up Hollister at the Haybaler diamond.

CARMEL NINE HOSTS GILROY TODAY

With two week's play remaining in the B division of the CCAL, the top four teams are bunched close enough to provide a chance for any team to sneak in and cop the division flag. Pacific Grove and King City are in the favored spot but their remaining games put them against the stronger teams in the league and make up-sets possible. In this week's play, Pacific Grove and King City clash in a game which will unlock the first place spot, Gonzales, tackles Hollister and will be fighting furiously to move out of the cellar, and Gilroy comes to Carmel seeking revenge for an earlier defeat administered by the Padres.

In today's game at Carmel, Carmel will send ace right-hander George Hunter against Gilroy's Mike Greco, one of the best curveball pitchers in the league. Hunter won the nod over Greco in an early season game at Gilroy and the stocky Gilroy flinger will try to even the score today. Gilroy's batting attack is powered by Tony Vigna, all-league third-baseman, who hits that long ball and is picture-perfect around the hot corner. Carmel's infield will be manned by Craig Chapman, catcher; Paul Fratessa, first-base; Jim Konrad, second-base; Jon Zellhoefer, third-base; and Bob Michela at the shortstop spot. Flychasers Don Leidig, Kyrd Reid, and Dick Jennings will patrol the outfield.

LEAGUE OPENER SUN. FOR DEL MONTE CRICKET CLUB

Del Monte Cricket Club will play its first league game of the season this Sunday afternoon at the Carmel High School field. Facing the local lineup will be the promising California Cricket Club, which last week scored a surprise win over last year's league-leading Marin team in the first game of the season in the Bay Area.

Bowling for the Del Monte club will be team captain Allan Foulkes and Eskild Bonnellycke. In the batting department, team hopes rest on Foulkes, last year's top-scoring batsman Frank Elton, and newcomer Leo Knoop, a Canadian Army captain now studying at the Army Language School. Another of the team's top batsmen, Bill McKenzie, is not expected back from Seattle in time for Sunday's game, but will be a potent threat in future league matches.

Game time is 1:00 o'clock, and spectators are invited.

CIRCLING THE BASES

The Monterey Peninsula College baseball team wound up the season in a blaze of glory last Saturday afternoon as they downed the San Jose JC, 12 to 8, in the opener of the double-bill finale. It matters little that the Lobos dropped the nightcap, 8 to 0, since victory in the first game prevented the Lobos from getting blanked against all college opposition during the season. Gary Childs and Jim Kuwatani collaborated in pitching the gratifying victory for the local collegians. Saturday's games were highlighted by the presence of three major league scouts who were looking over the San Jose shortstop who has been turning down pro bids with reckless abandon.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

The "Write" Prescription

Noticed three half-finished letters lying on the counter down at Jones' Drug Store last week. "Writing three at once, Doc?" I asked.

"No," Doc said, "you are—you and the rest of the town. Those are for the boys from our town who are at the National Guard encampment."

"Everyone who comes in adds a line or two, and when a couple of pages are filled, I mail them. That way the boys hear from folks who might not write otherwise. They sure do enjoy it."

From where I sit, little things can add up pretty big. A few short notes make a letter. Boys from our little town help build up a strong National Guard to protect our freedom. Even freedom is made up of a lot of things—living where we like, voting the way we think is right, choosing between coffee, tea, or beer at dinner. And anything that adds up to freedom gets my stamp of approval.

The next demonstration in the current series of Artists at Work, given by the Carmel Adult School, will be by Hank Ketcham, on Monday evening in Sunset Auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Although most of us are familiar with Hank's Dennis the Menace cartoon, the background leading up to its creation is not as well known, and here are some of the facts. Henry King Ketcham, born in Seattle in 1920, entered the University of Washington as an art major in 1937, but the strong urge to cartoon lured Hank to Hollywood after his first year there. He did animation work for the Walt Lantz Studios, then worked on Pinocchio and Fantasia with Disney for two and a half years. Then came Pearl Harbor. Hank enlisted in the navy in January 1942. He was promptly ordered to Washington, D.C. and the office of the Secretary of the Navy where he did War Bond sales promotion work of all kinds including six motion picture cartoon shorts. Shortly after arriving in Washington he met Alice Mahar of Malden, Massachusetts, and they were married in June of 1942. After selling gag cartoons in his spare time while in the navy Hank became one of the country's most successful and prolific gag cartoonists after the war, winning the Billy DeBeck award for the best comic cartoon of 1952 for his feature, Dennis the Menace.

The Artists at Work series under the direction of Kay Rodgers are open to the public. Children accompanied by an adult are welcome. The next demonstration after the one by Hank Ketcham will be by Harry I. Timmins, illustrator, who now designs for Hollywood studios.

New Craft Shop Opens In Carmel

A new and different Carmel shop, the Crafts House, will open tomorrow at Fifth and San Carlos streets.

The shop is a cooperative undertaking by five local artisans, all members of the Carmel Crafts Guild, and each of whom will offer examples of his or her work. They are Russell Brown, weaving; Enola Dickey, silk screening, serigraphs, and mobiles; Bernice Huber, pottery and stoneware; Marion Miller, leather work; and Carolyn White, weaving and linoleum block prints. Among the items they will show will be home-ware, decorative and functional ceramic pieces, wearing apparel, textiles, cards, stationery, gift papers and leather bags.

Each of the five craftsmen will work in the shop one day a week, while the others are producing at home. New articles will be brought in constantly as they are designed and completed.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press, Dial Carmel 7-3881.

Charitable Work Of Church Women Reported At Meeting

Making 851 pounds of soap in the past year for the needy in Okinawa and Korea, by Mrs. Jack Farrell of Pacific Grove, was reported to the annual meeting of Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women last Friday at Asilomar. Members of the C.C.W. give surplus fats, and other expenses come out of the organization's treasury; the product is distributed in the Orient by an Army Chaplain to whom the soap is sent. In addition many hundreds of pounds of clothing are collected, mended if necessary, and sent throughout the year to these two countries. This is the largest unit of welfare work carried on by the church women.

The meeting began with brunch in the dining hall at 11:30 o'clock, in observance of May Fellowship Day, with business and program in the chapel conducted by Mrs. T. C. Harris, retiring president. After the reports of committees, Mrs. Jeanie Canada sang Evening and Morning, and Out of the Deep Have I Called Unto Thee, with Mrs. Bowen as accompanist. More than $650 was collected during the year and expended in the religious and welfare activities of the organization.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Bessie Lucas. For the afternoon's guest speaker, Mrs. Eben Whittlesey introduced Miss Mary Crane Clark, of the local Committee on Alcoholism. Miss Clark explained the organization's work for cure of this habit, which is treated as a disease, with attention to eliminating the underlying cause. She pointed out that the alcoholic needs sympathy and understanding, not blame. Mrs. Whittlesey reported on the present status of the statewide efforts for control of sale of liquor. Out of some 500 bills introduced into the Legislature, a proposed constitutional amendment was approved to go on the ballot next November. It provides for a Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control with a director appointed by the governor and a commission of three members.

Mrs. Harris then installed the three officers elected earlier to a two-year term: Mrs. R. O. Hazelrigg, president; Mrs. Brooks Lockhart, first vice-president; and Mrs. Wm. H. Hales, corresponding secretary. Officers whose term expires next year are Mrs. Jack Warren, second vice president; Mrs. Charles C. Torrance, recording secretary; and Mrs. Lena Landis, treasurer.

HI CHATTER

By Susan Nutter

Last Saturday at the Robert Louis Stevenson School for Boys, the AAUW played host at a tea for senior girls on the Peninsula belonging to CSF. Carmel girls attending the tea were Pat Finley, Christine Conley, and Alicia Bauer.

The senior class had a meeting to finish up old business concerning the graduation ceremony on June 11. The seniors will sing the Good Lord Bless and Keep You as their class song. The three speakers for graduation, Pat Finley, Sam Smith, and Howard Taggart, have chosen their theme for their speeches. The theme is on education, and each speaker will give a different aspect on the subject.

Christine Conley and Susan Nutter are attending the United Nations Conference at Stanford University today. This conference is being put on by the International Relations department of the university and gives high school students all over the state of California a chance to discuss intelligently today's United Nations problems.

Thank you's are in order to the generous merchants who willingly donated prizes and other articles to give the Girls League Scholarship Carnival a definite boost. The carnival was again a wonderful success, and all those who were in anyway involved can pat themselves on the back. A special thanks goes to the Rotary Club who again gave a $50.00 check to the scholarship fund. After the bills are paid it is hoped that two $250 scholarships will be possible. The scholarships are awarded to one boy and one girl of the class of 1954, who are of good character, have a B average, have been of outstanding service to the school, and who have a definite need.

This annual carnival is the most unifying project that the school undertakes. The co-operation

Judge J. A. (Jim) Jeffery, has announced his candidacy for Judge of Monterey County Superior Court.

Member of a pioneer Salinas family, Judge Jeffery was born, raised and attended school in Salinas. He was graduated from the University of Southern California and practiced law in San Pedro through 1935. Former legal advisor for Tynan Lumber Company, he was appointed Justice of the Peace in 1941, promoted to Class A Justice two years later, and has been Municipal Court Judge since 1952.

Judge Jeffery, 51, is the father of four children, one son presently serving in the Army, and has two grandchildren. He is vice-president of the Salinas Lions Club, past president of the Justice's and Constable's Association, State of California, past director of Community Chest, member and past secretary of Monterey County Sheriff's Posse and past district chairman of Monterey Bay Council of Boy Scouts.

MPC CAMPUS NEWS

By Allepe Knight

Today was election day at MPC. The officers who win this election will take over their positions next year. As MPC is hosting the State Junior College Conference at Asilomar in November, it is very important to get good candidates, and elect dependable officers. Those running for office are Joe Beard, Fritz Meyers, Phil Hambrook, and Ed Lee, president; Rudy Martin and George Drake, vice-president; Carolyn Hamilton, secretary; Sue Shadley, Randy Reinstedt, and Bob Bournes, commissioner of rallies and assemblies; Helen Peterson and Carol Stromberg, commissioner of social affairs; Cherie Addenin, commissioner of publications; Gene Rumrill, commissioner of athletics, and Tom McMillan, commissioner of finance.

Tomorrow night the annual Spring Prom will be held. This dinner dance will be at the San Carlos Hotel, with dinner served from 7:30 until 8:30 and dancing to the music of Al Mendoza and his orchestra until 1:00 o'clock.

The AWS put on a very successful Mother-Daughter Tea on Wednesday at 3:00 o'clock in the Student Union. Following the tea was a fashion show, with about 20 girls modeling spring and summer fashions.

The MPC Band traveled to San Francisco State to participate in a music festival of all Junior Colleges in Northern California on Tuesday. Each band plays to an audience of the members of the other bands, so that they can exchange ideas and listen to other college bands.

Doner To Have One-Man Show In Los Altos

A one-man art show featuring the new paintings of Carmel artist Ephraim Doner will be held at Hidden Villa Ranch in Los Altos Sunday from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Duveneck. The exhibit is being sponsored by Miss Hope Duveneck and Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Duveneck, Jr., of Los Altos and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Dana of Menlo Park.

Ephraim Doner was born in 1906 in a portion of Poland which had been for some time under Russian jurisdiction. His father was a printer, his grandfather a scholar. Doner attended the University of Warsaw, earning his living by tutoring and by his excellence at chess. His striking painting, The Chess Players, among those to be shown at the coming exhibit, could only have been painted by someone who understood and appreciated the game. His family moved to New York in 1925 and Doner completed his formal education at New York City College. He became a furrier and worked at that trade until 1933, when his interest in art superseded more practical considerations. He went to Paris to study, where his originality soon aroused considerable controversy. His fourth canvas, a self-portrait, was scorned by his artist friends, who dared him to enter it in one of the famous Paris art shows of the period. His painting was accepted, while those of his more conventional friends were not, and it

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
O. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

When this week's column is in the hands of Pine Cone readers, I shall be in Washington attending the annual meeting of the National Parks Association. Since this is one of the leading conservation groups in the nation's capital, it might be well to describe its work in some detail.

Its history dates back to the passage by Congress in 1916 of the Act establishing the National Park Service. The first director of the Service was Stephen T. Mather, a wealthy native son of California who made a fortune out of "Twenty-Mule-Team" borax. Although he left California after graduating from the University at Berkeley, he had joined the Sierra Club and become an enthusiastic mountaineer. When he wrote the Secretary of the Interior Lane complaining about the way the national parks were being run, the Secretary wrote back to him saying: "If you don't like the way the parks are being run, come on back to Washington and run them yourself".

Mather accepted the invitation and brought with him Robert Sterling Yard on his personal payroll. Yard was a journalist formerly associated with Mather in the office of the New York Sun. He became publicity representative of the National Park Service, building up public relations in behalf of the national park system. In 1919, because of certain legislation passed by Congress, it became necessary for him to leave Mather's employ. Thereupon Mather helped him to organize the National Parks Association for the purpose of continuing to carry on the public relations work. He became its first secretary and its guiding spirit for a good many years.

The Association now has approximately 8000 members in all parts of the country. To quote from its membership folder, it is a "citizen's non-profit organization, operating independently of the government. It provides a means whereby the people themselves can express their views regarding the management and protection of the parks. The Association seeks constantly to see that the high standards of the parks are upheld; urges sufficient funds to enable the Park Service to protect the parks more adequately; encourages addition to the park system of areas considered of national importance which are not yet being protected, and strives to bring to congressional attention the pressing need for acquiring private lands within the parks and monuments."

Its first test of effectiveness came in the twenties when a scheme to dam Yellowstone Lake was introduced in Congress. By alerting its members and enlisting the help of various other public-spirited groups, the Association was able to prevent this despoliation of Yellowstone's primeval landscape. The threat still persists in the background, however, and may come to the fore most any time, if its proponents consider the political atmosphere favorable.

Other successful campaigns in which the Association has played a leading part were as follows: Preventing the abolishment of Jackson Hole National Monument as proposed by livestock interests; Saving the Olympic National Park from being logged (two campaigns, one in 1947 and one just concluded); Prohibiting 20,000 acres of Glacier National Park from being flooded by the proposed Glacier View Dam; Protecting the Mount San Geronio Primitive area in southern California from destruction by roads, ski runs and buildings; Establishing the Everglades National Park, with the resulting protection of the area's wildlife.

The most recent campaign, which is still undecided, is that to save Dinosaur National Monument on the Colorado-Utah border from being ruined by the building of the Echo Park Dam. The whole national park system is at stake in this campaign, because if the dam is authorized by Congress, it will be the signal for half a dozen other similar projects to be pushed in other national parks. An exhibit on this subject may be seen in the show-case in front of the law office of Farr and Millard on Lincoln Street between Ocean Avenue and Seventh Street.

If my time is not too occupied while in Washington, I shall try to send back a dispatch reporting happenings in this matter, and in any other conservation matters of national interest. The bill affecting Dinosaur National Monument has not yet been reported out of the House Committee. When it comes out, it will be the signal for all those who have the interests of the national parks at heart to "write or wire" Representative Ernest K. Bramblett, asking him to vote in favor of deleting Echo Park Dam from the bill.

The Time Has Come

By Kippy Stuart

I got scolded this week by Lester Roundtree. I got scolded plenty! From any lesser authority I might have been slightly piqued, but not ever piqued at Lester Roundtree. All the world knows Lester as our authority on wild flora and her many books are used by all students of horticulture.

Lester took exception to my reference to wild flora as weeds. She avers that my article last week was the baloney because I did not specify just which are weeds and which are wild flowers. Now, only such an expert as Lester Roundtree could so differentiate. Her contention is an odd one; she told me that all the native flora that is scattered over California is flowers; all others that have been blown in, or those that have been transported from far parts, are weeds. I could not dispute with any such authority as Lester, but I confess her contention left me puzzled. How is a fellow to know the difference? Weeds is weeds when they appear unwanted in any garden and no matter how beautiful they may be in their wild state, they are still a nuisance in the garden.

It will behoove all of us to study Lester Roundtree's many books on wild flora. They are beautifully written and hold adventure as well as the romance of the wild. This slip of a woman treks off into the wild country all alone. She sleeps with wild fauna near her pillow, and I am convinced that Lester understands the language of chipmunk and squirrel. Some of her recorded experiences away up yonder above timber line are astonishing as well as informative. Take a day off and get acquainted with her many books on the wild.

I am having a wonderful time raising my own seeds. I have tried this stunt of broadcasting seeds in the Spring and I have come up with exactly nothing. Now I am the possessor of a miniature green house that is the joy of my life. To date I have raised successfully all the Spring and Summer seeds for myself as well as for my friends. Flat after flat has matured under this method and I am overflowing with sprouted seeds of all varieties. There are all sorts of miniature greenhouses. Mine is just the size of an ordinary flat; there are other slightly larger than can rest on a table in the patio or the back yard, and every earnest gardener should possess himself or herself of one of these gadgets.

It is time to take a look-see at delphinium. I've seen some plants around here that are on the way out and that could be saved by a good spraying with Isotox and Orthorix. The Isotox gets the insects; the Orthorix gets mildew and rust, the two greatest enemies of roses, gladiolus, and delphinium. Don't let your garden rot before your eyes. Get into the habit of inspecting delicate growing things. There is at hand, at all nurseries, remedies for plant ills and the price of saving a valuable plant is so little.

I've got the new pink delphinium, and last year it bloomed beautifully. This new hybrid is not as hardy as its forebears, but with care it will make a good showing. Planted with the delphinium Blue Jay, this new pink variety is stunning.

Americanism Essays

Wednesday night the American Legion Auxiliary awarded prizes to the winners in the annual Americanism Essay Contest. Winners in group one, fourth, fifth and sixth grades, were Michael Mitchell and Betsy Helm, Junipero Serra School. In group two, seventh, eighth and ninth grades, were Gail Mackenzie and Hansy de Petra, Sunset. Third group awards were won by Lynn Taylor and Jeanne Fratessa, high school juniors. The first place winning essay in each group is published below.

WHAT THE PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE MEANS TO ME

By MICHAEL MITCHELL, 6th Grade
Junipero Serra School, Group 1

To me the Pledge of Allegiance means honor and respect for my country. This means my loyalty and help to support our country. I think we should do all we can to protect and defend it. I, for one, pledge myself against unjust things.

"I Pledge Allegiance to the Flag," that means, I pledge myself to our flag and no other country's flag. "Of the United States of America," that means, to me and all people of the American dependencies.

"For which it stands," that means we should honor and respect it. We should never criticize or mock it.

"One Nation indivisible," that means our Nation is united and can not be divided by force or any other means.

"With Liberty and Justice for All," that means that all people are equal and get the same treatment as anyone else. There are other kinds of pledges but I like the Pledge of Allegiance the best. It gives me a great thrill to say it because I am an American and live in a free country where there is justice and peace. I pledge my support to all lawful authority both civil and religious.

As an American I should restore and not destroy the good things God has given us. I should do my part to prevent destruction of our forests and wildlife. I hope I shall always say the Pledge of Allegiance with reverence and do nothing to disgrace this promise to my country.

OUR AMERICAN PRIVILEGES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

By GAIL MACKENZIE, 8th Grade,
Sunset School, Group 2

The average American citizen considers our American heritage as nothing but an array of privileges which can be exercised at will. He does not stop to think that our heritage is far too important to be treated as just privileges.

What do we mean by our American heritage? The men who first formed the Constitution planned and gave us the rights we enjoy now. Among these are the rights to stand up as an individual, the right to take part in the government by voting, the freedom of worship, freedom of speech and press, the freedom of movement and the freedom of expression. The United States is a representative form of government; the supreme powers are in our own hands.

But these American privileges are also responsibilities. If we don't vote now and choose our representatives of office wisely, it is possible that we may lose our privilege of voting. If we don't pay our taxes, the various parts of the government can't continue to serve the people, and promote the welfare of the nation. If we don't stand up now and give constructive criticisms, we have only ourselves to blame if we lose our freedom of speech. We must be aware of our responsibilities behind our privileges.

To reaffirm faith in the dignity and worth of our country, we must work together to promote social progress and better standards. The task of building America is not yet complete.

*I watch the plowman step his furrowed trail
And I am one with him. One with the lad
Who scatters wheat toward the thrust of shear
At harvest time; the brave who dares the thick
Of battle and retreat . . . One with the frail
Of bone; the reveler whose mirth is plaid
Of days; the saint, repentant with a tear
That fails to clean the festering mire; a flick
Of light or dark; of solid rock or shale
That slips the foot thrice backward in the mad
Push-on of days; one with all joy or jeer
Of fellow man; a fickle clod, or brick.*

That waits the harvester who reaps each hour.*

The shells, the salt-rimmed borders of the tide,
The tireless waves that strive beyond their reach
Confer a healing not to be denied.
Here is a freedom from the bonds of brain,
The grind of problems and the whirl of plans,
The pounding and the tyranny of news
With tragedies the worn heart barely scans.
Walk for an hour on this Pacific shore
Where the sea answers blue to shining blue
And let the mind turn all its torments out.
The beauty of this moment will restore
The sadly scattered wholeness and renew
The garden of the spirit round about.*

No nation has even been made great because its citizens wished it to be great. It takes work to turn the wheels of industry. It takes work to till the soil. It takes work to build homes. Ideals of Americanism and Democracy can only be achieved through the people themselves. It is our duty to uphold the ideas for which our ancestors fought and died fighting in the Revolutionary War. We must advocate the ideas for which men struggled and overcame hardships to form our Constitution. A Democracy is only as strong as its citizens, and this duty lies now on our shoulders.

In international affairs and in internal affairs, the noncommunist world is watching with anxious eyes, the methods of leadership of America, which is the great source of strength to the free world. We must use democratic methods if we are to show our enemies and allies the worth of democracy. These privileges are not just privileges, but tools, which must be used properly to preserve our way of life. If we are interested in showing others, the values of Democracy, we must practice Democracy. A citizenry that doesn't accept its privileges as responsibilities is not only in danger of losing them, but doesn't deserve them.

As Benjamin Franklin said during the formative days of our Democracy, "They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety, deserve neither liberty nor safety."

I believe that the best way to fight an external danger is by internal strength, and that this internal strength is quickly determined by the willingness of citizens to fulfill their responsibilities to their country and to themselves.

WHAT ARE OUR INALIENABLE RIGHTS?

By LYNN TAYLOR, Junior,
Carmel High School, Group 3

The desire for freedom in the New World began with the first step on American soil by the colonists. These people soon realized that the mercantilistic ideas, set up by the mother country, could not be tolerated. The colonists showed their feelings by staging the "Boston Tea Party."

We have many reminders to show us how the first Americans fought for the freedom we now enjoy. The greatest and most daring event was the writing and signing of The Declaration of Independence. The men who signed this document took a chance on their lives to give us the freedom we now have.

The Declaration of Independence states, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." What exactly does this mean? It means just this: Jefferson and the men who framed the Declaration of Independence believed that according to law all men should have the birthright of equality. A right to life, a right to liberty, and a right to the opportunity to be happy are necessary and fundamental to our governmental system. These are our inalienable rights.

Jefferson and the men who framed the Declaration of Independence used this belief as a political idea. They knew men could not be equal in wealth, intellect, position, or the many other things that mark the differences of the individual or of the human race. They had in mind the inequalities that were existing in the Old World at that time; where men were born to political preference, where kings ruled because their fathers before them had ruled, not because they were suited to rule nations, but rather because of birth.

Our democratic principle of government has been stated in the first paragraph of the Declaration of Independence. We have fought, died, and held on to these democratic—American—principles. These, then, are "our inalienable rights."

Jeanne Dam Finds Ideal Role In Moon Is Blue At Wharf Theatre

BY KIPPY STUART

The Moon is Blue, the sparkling comedy at the Wharf Theater, is filled with nonsense and supersophistication. The story has to do with a young lass who goes about proclaiming that she is a virgin. Since "the lady doth protest too much," she arouses natural suspicion that she is anything "but," and based upon this suspicion, the plot takes form, moving forward with swift acceleration.

Jeanne Dam, cast as Patty O'Neill, the young professed virgin, carries the entire play upon her young shoulders. Those of us who have watched Jeanne's progress from one role to another, agree that in the part of Patty O'Neill she has come into her own. Her interpretation of the character is excellent and her artlessness and naivete are the qualities that make her suitable for the role. In The Moon is Blue, Jeanne's facial expressions change like lightning. From wistful, tense dramatic moments she flashes into mischievous teasing, uttering some salacious incongruity that shocks the audience. Jeanne Dam is a young actress on the way up. Her progress at the Wharf Theater is obvious and her ability to handle so diverse a role as Patty O'Neill seems to prove that she has chosen well her profession.

Glen Nielsen, in the role of Donald Gresham, is a staid and troubled bachelor. In this part, Glen does not have sufficient opportunity to show his prowess since he must maintain a dour and worried countenance. He did very well for himself in the cast of Mister Roberts, where he had more scope for his talents, but be it said for Glen Nielsen, he is a natural for love-making.

George Gordon played the part of David Slater, the old roue type man-about-town. George Gordon is exceedingly handsome and fitted his role well, if a bit on the youngish side. His movements were suave and his lines well calculated to shock all those within hearing. There was a filip of lustful suggestion every time George open his mouth and he carried himself throughout the performance with impudent assurance. Many in the audience objected to George Gordon's too-too obvious gray hair. The hair was too artificial and this prop gray hair did not make him old enough for the part of a middle-aged man with a grown daughter.

The Wharf Theater could not exist without Nick Le Feuvre. Nick is pinch-hitter and I betcha that Nick can "walk-on" at the last minute in any part that needs holding up. Don Gunderson, is cast to play Michael O'Neill, the irate father of Patty O'Neill, but on Sunday night Don was absent. Just-like-that, Nick tumbled into the role and did very well for himself. Nick is also responsible for the excellent stage sets; the modern bachelor's apartment was well conceived, and the zany set of top-of-the-Empire Building, was a stroke of genius. Nick achieves his stage setting more by elimination than crowding, and in The Moon is Blue, he out-did himself with his illusions.

The directing of The Moon is Blue, by Robert Carson, resulted in a well motivated performance, moving smoothly from start to finish without one line fluffed or one character out of line. This is a play that will keep the Wharf Theater crowded to the doors and I for one, am heartily glad that I had the opportunity to see Jeanne Dam star in The Moon is Blue.

By Karen Williams

About three months ago I ran into Owen Greenan at the Post Office, and he said, "Karen, I have written a play." So Owen told me about his play, and I was very interested. He told me that he would call me when actual preparations began, and I was extremely pleased, thinking that he would surely give me some little part, like the lead. Well, Owen called

I am doing costumes for Owen's play, Pine No More. Now this costuming business has a definite way of being done. Which I'm not doing. But I have worked out a method of my own. First I read the script, a good way of starting. Then I began sketching the characters in the type of clothing I thought suitable, keeping in mind that they had to conform not only with personality, but also with the different actions called for in the script. I have never been able to draw people in any way except from the front view, nothing fancy like three-quarter or side views, so my sketches were all rather strange, until I decided to get my family to pose for me. I would go up to my parents' house and ask my father to be a model, drawing him in some casual, easy, natural pose like sitting in a chair drinking buttermilk and reading the Kinsey Reports. My little sister was the most willing, and she posed for everything from the football captain to the head of the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce.

The next step was to show my efforts to Owen, and as soon as we reached a compromise, I had a consultation with Colden Whitman, who is doing the sets for the show. He and I decided on the basic colors to be used in the costumes; (up to this the drawings were in black and white only), the colors to be avoided, the ones to be emphasized, all in accordance with the color scheme of the sets.

The sketches were shown to the cast. Since Pine No More is in modern dress, my job is greatly simplified. Most of the costumes can be provided by the cast members themselves. However, there are some that just can't be found in anyone's closet. Those will have to be made by-hand. I have made no attempt actually to design the clothes. The purpose of me in this production is merely to decide what kind of costumes should be worn, the colors, the styles, and to give the cast ideas for things that they can find at home or borrow from friends. This business of borrowing pieces of clothing sometimes has a fine effect on the people from whom you borrow. Aunt Gertie will attend the show and feel that she has personally contributed to the production by lending, for instance, her mink coat. Cousin Jasper can say, "See there? Those are my argyle socks!" And so on.

So now that the preliminaries

Music Teachers Hold Recital

The third annual recital of the Monterey County Branch of the Music Teachers' Association of California was heard last Sunday afternoon in Monterey. It is the contention of the state organizers that training of quality in solo performance cannot be accomplished except in the private studios of teachers; that mass teaching in the schools and colleges is at best supplementary, although are over, my job will consist of gathering together all clothing, borrowing certain pieces, and sewing the rest. These are the various stages of costuming a play. The final stage is at the Monterey County Fair Grounds, where Pine No More will open on June 14.

very beneficial in important branches of musicianship.

This argument received some justification through the Sunday recital, for the one predominant feature of each young person's performance was clean workmanship and a personal note in the interpretation of the several numbers. All compositions used were from the pens of the best composers. An evenness of progress in skill from the earliest grader to the more advanced students, and an air of competence on the part of all were refreshing to observe.

The association has a "California Plan" for the licensing of competent music teachers by the State Board of Education—apart from the school system—that many leading musicians are working for. This will receive much attention at the convention in Pasadena next July. —E. C. Hopkins

CHS Musicians on Tour

Nine Carmel High School music students went to San Francisco last week as featured performers in the California State Music Festival, held Friday at San Francisco State College.

Solo performances were given by Priscilla Clark, flute; Charlotte Boyd and Millard Martin, clarinet, and Sam Smith, trumpet. A flute and French horn duet was played by Priscilla Clark and Barbara Mitchell, a clarinet duet by Charlotte Boyd and Millard Martin and a trumpet duet by Sam Smith and Jon Menand. Piano accompaniments were handled by Carol Boyd, Ann Marshall and Judy Paplow. The young musicians were accompanied on their trip by Stuart Mitchell and music teacher John Farr.

Cup Shower for Carlene

An old pre-wedding custom will be observed this afternoon at the shower to be given by Mrs. Marie Short and her daughter Kraig (Mrs. Neil Weston) in honor of Carlene Daniels, whose marriage to Erik Short has been set for June 26.

The bride-to-be will be the object of a "cup shower", with each of the guests presenting her with a distinctive demi-tasse cup and saucer. It's a pretty idea, combining usefulness and sentiment, but no one seems sure where the custom originated — in any case, cup showers have long been traditional in San Francisco, and that's where Mrs. Short first heard of it (she was given a cup shower prior to her wedding).

Carlene's mother, Mrs. Carl Daniels, and several of her future bridal attendants will also be among the scores of guests at this afternoon's shower and tea, which will take place at 3:00 o'clock at Mrs. Short's home.

Young Attends Seminar

Thomas B. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Young of Carmel, is one of over 100 active duty and reserve naval officers attending the eighth annual Naval Reserve Public Relations Seminar at the U.S. Naval Air Station in Norfolk, Virginia.

Young, a reserve lieutenant commander, is methods manager of Sears, Roebuck and Co. in Seattle. He and his wife, Jean, make their home in Seattle.

Elton on Africa for Bookwomen

Frank Elton, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula, will be guest speaker at the final meeting of the book section of the Carmel Women's Club at 2:00 o'clock Monday afternoon. He will discuss Problems of South Africa, with particular emphasis on background and future outlook.

Mr. Elton was born in Johannesburg, attended school there and later took his A.B. from Cambridge University in England. Following his graduation he returned to South Africa for field work among the Bantu people. During his service in World War II he was captured by Rommel's forces in Libya and spent four years as a POW in Europe. At the war's end, he became a career officer in the South African Diplomatic Service and spent eight years in South America in that capacity. Then came California, and ultimately Pebble Beach, where he, his wife and their three children now make their home. Since coming here Mr. Elton has entered the investment business and has been active in the World Affairs Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton will be honored at a tea following the meeting Monday.

DAR Citizenship Awards

The annual meeting of Commodore Sloat Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Samuel B. Moore on San Luis Avenue in Carmel Woods.

D. A. R. "good citizenship" pins will be presented to Pat Finley of Carmel High School, Jean Hurlbert of Pacific Grove High, and Mary Neff of Monterey High.

Music will be furnished by Robert Phillips, who will play a special cello arrangement of a Bach composition.

Co-hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. W. T. Moore, Mrs. J. K. Paul and Misses Ellen Frink and Genevieve Reed.

Visiting in South

Margaret McIntire left this week for southern California and a fortnight's visit with her sister in Pasadena. Before returning home she plans to stop with friends in Long Beach, and anticipates arriving back here around June 1.

Las Vegas Holiday

Enjoying a brief holiday in Las Vegas last week were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kvenild, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Tucker, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter (the Carmel Valley ones). The three couples returned home last weekend after several days at the gaudy desert oasis.

Anniversary Portrait

Having an artist as a son-in-law — particularly such an artist as Richard Lofton — can result in something rather special in the way of surprises, as Dr. and Mrs. Paul Schallert will discover this Monday, when they celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

The anniversary surprise for Dr. and Mrs. Schallert is a Lofton oil portrait of their daughter, Nancy, and their four-and-a-half year old granddaughter, Missy. Dick has been working on the portrait for the past few weeks, with Nancy and Missy dutifully showing up for daily sittings in the studio between spells of work (or Nancy) and play (Missy's). The finished portrait, pronounced by Mrs. Lofton to be one of the best things her husband has done to date, was rushed off air express to the Schallerts' home at Alta Monte Springs, Florida, and will be there in time for the celebration Monday.

The portrait is the first Dick has done of Missy, although the Lofton's older daughter, Nana Dee, was the subject of a portrait he did last year — and which was sent off as a gift to another member of the family. In response to a certain wistfulness on his wife's part as the latest portrait was shipped off, Dick has promised to paint another — just for her — this summer.

Hundreds See Garden Tour

Over 700 Peninsula residents turned tourist and saw spring at its local best during the annual AWVS Garden Tour last Wednesday, profits of which go to the Monterey Peninsula Visiting Nurse Association. Success of the event was credited in part to J. Pluvius, who provided a warm, cloudless day and sparkling sunshine which displayed the dozen choice gardens to best advantage.

The itinerary ranged from the informal, "typically Carmel" garden of Miss Barbara Gurley to the historic Spanish garden of the Sherman Rose adobe on Monterey Mesa and the handsomely landscaped grounds of the George Cruickshank estate in Pebble Beach. Carmel also offered the varied gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kergan, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Beshore, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thompson. Additional interest was generated by a last-minute added attraction on the tour: the garden of the home belonging to Greer Garson and her mother, Mrs. Nina Garson, in Pebble Beach. Several hundred of the tourists also stopped at the William May Garland home for lunch, served to the rippling music of the harp played by Mrs. Richard Catlin. Mrs. Richard L. Bower was general chairman of the event, with the large luncheon committee headed by Mrs. Roy Page.

Harts Home From South

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hart, who've been devoting their time to a relaxed pursuit of the good life, have returned from an extended winter stay in Santa Barbara. They'll give their trailer home a rest before setting off again.

Herman Woodward Recoups

His many Carmel friends will be happy to know that Herman Woodward is home and recuperating rapidly after a recent operation at Monterey Hospital. At present rate of recovery, he'll be back at his job as printer for the Pine Cone in no time.

Red Cross Honored

Carmel Red Cross has received a certificate of honor from national headquarters in acknowledgment of the successful completion of their recent fund drive. Frank Putnam, as fund drive chairman, has also been awarded an individual certificate of honor from National Red Cross.

Fortnight in New York

Mrs. Jane Parker, the Wharf Theatre's Girl Friday, has returned from an 18-day visit in the east which was divided almost equally between her two strongest attachments: her family and the stage.

First stop was Pennsylvania and a stopover with her brother, John Joy Edson, in Sewickley. In New York, Mrs. Parker visited an aunt, Miss Sarah M. Bennett (who has many friends in Carmel), and started off on a round of the current Broadway shows. Despite no advance reservations, Jane reports she was able to see everything of interest except Teahouse of the August Moon and the Caine Mutiny Court Martial—even her dogged persistence failed to get single seats for either. On the whole, she found the new shows excellent; in fact, her only complaint about New York was in regard to the weather, which, in her own phrase, "was strictly pew."

Jane also managed a reunion with former Wharf Players Mary Buckner and Jean Levinson, who now share an apartment in Greenwich Village. Mary, who has been in the east for several months, has landed a position as leading lady with a summer stock company in Keene, New Hampshire, and will be leaving to start work there shortly. Jean, who left for New York last month, has several promising leads on acting jobs and hopes to land a definite assignment shortly.

Republican Women's Tea

The dramatically situated home of Francis Brown on Jacks Peak will be the setting for the annual membership tea of the Carmel Republican Women's Club, to be given at 3:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. All members of the group are invited to attend, as well as anyone interested in joining the club.

Featured speaker for the afternoon will be Herman Hoss, an authority on election procedures. The club has also invited Republican candidates for office to be present.

Tea will be served from two orchid-bedecked tables set up in the large patio. Heading the tea committee are Mrs. Hampton Stewart, Mrs. John Abernethy, Mrs. Robinson Campbell and Mrs. Lee Force; assisting will be Mesdames E. H. Tickle, Ella Shaw Fisher, Carl Nuetzel, Horace Lyon, N. M. Leonl, George Taylor and James Doud.

Mrs. Edison Holt, chairman of the club, will be assisted by Mrs. James O. Handley, hostess chairman, and Mrs. Alex W. Cleary, hospitality chairman. Guests will be greeted by Mesdames Ralph Gordon, Robert Brown, Stanley Greeb, E. M. Seifert, Blanche Woods, Thompson Hudson, Vernon Skillman, C. Gilbert Campbell, Fenton Grigsby, C. L. Berkey, Kathryn Lansdowne, A. C. Smiley, Jr., Harvey Russell, Howard Bell, Edward Dunlop and Willard Branson.

Mrs. Thomas K. Perry, transportation chairman, urges all members to make up car pools to facilitate parking.

Vagabonding to Spain

Shirley Guthrie and Ruth Fowles, who'll be leaving shortly on a vagabond tour to Spain, were the objects of a small farewell party Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown.

Present at the sendoff were Mr. and Mrs. William Griffith, who have bought the girls' former home in Del Monte Forest, and Mr. and Mrs. Webster Street. Misses Guthrie and Fowles have no definite plans once they arrive on the continent, other than to stay as long as possible. They hope to find work somewhere in Spain. Shirley was formerly a nurse-anesthetist for Dr. Stanley Winters, while Ruth was in civil service at Fort Ord.

STATE DEPT. OFFICIAL TO SPEAK HERE THURSDAY

James Frederick Green, distinguished author and deputy director of the State Department Office of United Nations Economic and Social Affairs, will be the speaker at a joint meeting Thursday of Carmel, Monterey, Carmel Valley and Pacific Grove Kiwanis Clubs and the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula. The public is invited to the luncheon which will be held at noon at La Playa Hotel. Topic of Mr. Green's talk will be The U.S. and the U.N.: Where Do We Go From Here?

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel 7-3881.

Son for the O'Reilleys

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. O'Reilly are the parents of a baby boy, born Saturday at Peninsula Community Hospital. He's been named Mark Francis, and weighed in at a shade over eight pounds, six ounces.

Two Big Sur Babies

The population of Big Sur was recently bolstered by the addition of two baby girls, Heidi Hopkins and Angela Mallory.

Heidi, who'll be a month old come Tuesday, is the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hopkins, and granddaughter of Mrs. Samuel Hopkins of Carmel. Heidi, who was born last Friday, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shawm Mallory. Both made their debuts at Peninsula Community Hospital.

Col. Graham for Stamp Club

The meeting Monday night of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club will depart temporarily from philately, when Col. William P. Graham of Carmel takes the floor as featured speaker.

Col. Graham, according to program chairman Abbott Silva, will speak on a subject of his own choosing: namely, "Reminiscences of my service in Army Intelligence." With due respect to the Army, Senator McCarthy and the FBI, this promises to be an interesting discussion. The meeting, notes Silva, will not be televised, and Col. Graham's remarks will not be monitored.

The meeting will be held at 8:00 o'clock at Carmel High School. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Blankenship and Miss Sally Reichert. All philatelists and their friends are invited to be present.

Gone Fishing

Any fish stories coming this week from Ernie Morehouse or Bud Foster are likely to be true. The boys returned early this week from three days at Shafer Lake, up above Fresno, where they found the trout ready and waiting for them. Eschewing the rigors of camping in the open, the two found themselves a small cottage and generally had a comfortable stay time of it. As for the fish—they came back with a couple of creelsful of fine rainbows, ranging from 12 to 16 inches.

BETTIE IS BETTER

The many friends of Bettie Greene will be glad to know that she is recovering from her recent serious illness and is expected to be released from the Peninsula Community Hospital Annex this week. Suitable arrangements have been made for the care of her horses and dogs during her illness and recuperative period. Bettie is and has been for many years, the popular proprietor of the Bettie Greene Stables at Junipero and Fifth streets.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

That man can gain health, happiness, and immortality by relying on the spiritual facts of God and man taught by Christ Jesus will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Mortals and Immortals" includes the account from the Bible of how Christ Jesus restored to life the only son of the widow of Nain (Luke 7:11-16).

Explaining the basis of Christ Jesus' healing power, the following passage will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Jesus never asked if disease were acute or chronic, and he never recommended attention to laws of health, never gave drugs, never prayed to know if God were willing that a man should live. He understood man, whose Life is God, to be immortal, and knew that man has not two lives, one to be destroyed and the other to be made indestructible" (369:16).

Sport Notes—

Southern California.
Kunstle's first win was the under-1500 c.c. event for unmodified cars. He then entered the main race, a gruelling one and a half hour event for cars of all size and displacement, and not only outran every other car in the under-1500 c.c. classification—both stock and modified—but finished in sixth position overall, ahead of several cars of much larger size and displacement. Not the least of his triumph was in beating the "unbeatable" Ken Miles, who has won virtually every light car event in the west, including the Pebble Beach Cup. Miles, driving a new modified MG-TF, finished second after Kunstle. The race further established that J.P.'s new Porsche, which went out of the running at Pebble Beach last month with engine difficulties, is ready for bigger and better things: he plans to enter the car in the Golden Gate Sports Car Races next month in San Francisco.

Among Jean Pierre's most enthusiastic boosters last weekend were his wife, Betsy, and his mother, Mrs. Albert Kunstle of Geneva, Switzerland, who was seeing her son race for the first time. She recently arrived here from the continent for her first visit with the Kunstles since they moved to Carmel.

HUNTER SAFETY CLASS
OPENS AT CARMEL HIGH

The first class of the Hunter Safety Course, designed to aid youthful sportsmen in obtaining a hunting license, will be held this evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Carmel High School library. The course is being presented by qualified instructors from the Carmel Associated Sportsmen, the Monterey Sportsmen and individual volunteers in cooperation with Captain Bud Millen, chief of the Monterey Division of Fish and Game, and Chuck Dawson, principal of Carmel Adult School.

A recently enacted state law requires all aspiring hunters under the age of 16 to pass an examination in safety with firearms before securing a hunting license, excepting those who have previously been issued a license. The four-hour instruction course at Carmel High, set up by the National Rifle Association, will be concluded with an hour of actual firing on the Carmel Sportsmen's Club range in Carmel Valley. On successful completion of the course each candidate for a license will receive a certificate of proficiency permitting him to purchase a junior hunting license from any authorized agent. In addition, he will receive an identification card and an NRA Safe Hunter emblem through the courtesy of the Carmel Associated Sportsmen.

Qualified instructors for the course from the Sportsmen's Club include Walter Stuefflen (club president), Chuck Dawson, General John T. Bissell, Blair Hackney, Bill Wellborn, Dick Lamb, Charles Nason and Hal Boyd.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel 7-3881.

Church Of Wayfarer Authorizes Plans For A New Building

Preliminary steps were taken on Monday evening toward the construction of the new building for the Church of the Wayfarer. By a unanimous vote of the members, George L. Willox and William D. Concolino were engaged as architects for the new building and instructed to present preliminary plans for approval of the membership.

This action came at the climax of the annual meeting of the congregation with the president, Dr. Charles N. Pearson presiding. The new building will contain more than 6,000 square feet of floor space, and provide greatly-needed space for worshippers on Sunday and for recreational and fellowship activities during the week.

Reports presented at Monday's meeting, which followed a dinner at 6:30 o'clock in the fellowship room, showed the greatest growth in the 49 years of the church's history. 128 members were received during the year while only 30 members were lost by death and transfer. Reports from the men's and women's groups, as well as youth and children's activities revealed a period of growth and expansion in all areas of the life of the church.

Projects for others, which were reported, included a year's scholarship at the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley for Miss Neva J. Gribble, former Carmel teacher; generous aid for a Korean student in the Monterey Peninsula College; and support of a missionary couple in Japan.

New officers were elected for the next year, headed by Eugene Harrah as president. The vice-president will be C. A. Neddersen, while Mrs. Floyd Harber and Robert C. Cairns were re-elected secretary and treasurer. Dr. H. J. Templeton was elected delegate-at-large on the executive committee, and Dr. Bela C. Maday, chairman of the commission on religious education. Four new trustees were chosen: Dr. Charles N. Pearson, J. A. Canoles, Norman C. Winslow, and Mrs. Walter Burde.

Aztec Arts Shop Opens Tomorrow

Aztec Arts, a new shop featuring Mexican crafts and authentic reproductions of pre-Colombian art, will be opened tomorrow by Mr. and Mrs. August Nieto. The new shop adjoins Su Vecino restaurant on Dolores near Sixth Street, managed by the Nietos and their two daughters Margaret and Kathleen.

Featured in Aztec Arts will be originals by Ken Belden, whom the Nietos met last year in Cuernavaca during their biennial trip to Mexico. Belden's copper and brass jewelry, buckles, plaques and novel "paintless paintings" are exacting adaptations of early Mexican art; profits from sales of his work go to the Committee to Combat Infant Malnutrition in Mexico. The shop will also carry authentic reproductions of pre-Colombian museum pieces made in Texcoco.

MENTAL HEALTH PLAY TONIGHT AT SUNSET

Ny Name is Legion, an unusual dramatic presentation concerning one man's experience in a mental institution, will be presented tonight at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium by the Monterey County Mental Health Society. Following the performance, which features a cast of outstanding Peninsula actors under the direction of Jack Kissel, there will be a panel discussion of the play and its message and an open question period. Participating in the panel will be Dr. Eric Berne, Lt. David Kupfer, Mrs. Virginia Mitchell and Fred Laue.

Otriches Purchase The Stocking Shop

Ruth and Sumral Otrich, proprietors of Candles of Carmel, have purchased The Stocking Shop, Ocean Avenue gift, notions and women's accessory shop. Previous owners were Dick and Bo Sumner, who sold out to the Otriches last week.

The Otriches plan to continue their operation of the candle shop as before, and also contemplate no change in the Stocking Shop. Helen Steel, who worked at the Stocking Shop under Mr. and Mrs. Sumner, will continue to assist there.

Only noticeable change seems to be in the Stocking Shop's official greeter; the Sumners' blonde cocker has been replaced by the Otriches' black one.

Special Shelf Of Adult Books For Young People

Carmel Library set aside a shelf this week of "interesting adult books for young people," with the idea of assisting the teen-ager in the transition from the children's room to full-scale adult reading.

The list of books Mrs. Pauline Heisinger, assistant librarian and children's librarian, has selected for the "interesting adult books for young people" shelf includes historical novels, worth-while present-day fiction, science fiction, sports stories and biography.

Among them is Tudor Rose by Margaret Campbell; Cress Delahanty by Jessamyn West; Spirit of St. Louis by Charles Lindbergh.

Ballet Academy Opening Delayed

Due to an unforeseen holdup in construction, the open house slated for today by Dudley and Joanne Nix at their new building on Mission near Eighth has been temporarily postponed.

Owner Nix says the new building, which will house the Carmel Ballet Academy and a new health club, looks just fine on the outside—but inside, an essential is yet to be installed: the plumbing.

The Nixes have asked friends to take a rain-check on the open house date. The building, plumbing and all, will be ready for inspection any day. They'll announce the date of the new open house.

(Continued from Page One) also direct the summer recreation program, the school camp, after-school sports and supervise a playground on Saturdays and holidays.

A delegation from the Parent-Teachers' Association took part in a discussion about the safety and durability of the present slate roofing at Sunset. The matter was brought up as a result of the recent earthquake, and it was pointed out that the school was undamaged by the tremor. Mat Perkins, structural engineer, had made a report in 1951 that while he considered Sunset "not unsafe," he recommended that the present roof be replaced by a lighter one as soon as possible. Such reconstruction would cost in the neighborhood of $120,000.

Other matters brought up in the meeting were: denial of a request for a proposed increase in salary for those on sabbatical leave; hiring of five new teachers for the coming year; tenure granted to Alan Aldwell, Social Studies teacher at the high school; recommendation adopted for the continuance of the Trade and Industry Cooperative Program; granting of a six-weeks' leave of absence to Mrs. Gladys M. Parks, financial secretary, with four weeks pay to compensate for overtime; motion carried on an amendment to the sick leave program to the effect that the District will pay for the certifying doctor in cases of teachers or employees returning to work following illness.

Gordon Campbell will present diplomas at Sunset School on June 10 for eighth grade graduates, and

J. O. Handley will present them for the high school on June 11.

The meeting was adjourned until this evening at 5:00 o'clock for the signing of teachers' contracts. Following the adjournment, a movie, School Boards in Action, was shown.
